

About Forestville

Forestville is located in the coastal region of Northern California in the heart of Sonoma County. Forestville's gently rolling hills are punctuated with stately redwoods, lush vineyards, and the majestic Russian River as it winds its way to the Pacific Ocean.

A quiet little community half an hour from the Pacific coast and about an hour north of the Golden Gate, Forestville retains a low-key family-oriented atmosphere. Longtime residents and new arrivals work together to constantly improve the quality of life for all.

Surrounded by green hillsides, vineyards and forestlands to the Russian River, Forestville maintains its rural character and scenic beauty while allowing for a responsible level of growth.
